Book a Chemistry Session

Clarity. Choice. Action.

Exact production specifications take priority over incidental details in generated imagery.

Your next step starts with clarity.

A thoughtful space to explore your career and leadership, understand your choices and decide a practical next step.

Type with intention

English: Manrope. Arabic: Noto Sans Arabic. Bold, short headlines; readable captions. Fonts are recommended and not bundled. Export separate language versions.

One clear invitation

Book a Chemistry Session.
The first conversation explores goals, expectations and whether working together is a good fit. Do not invent a price, duration or free-session promise.

Signature: a navy exploratory line becomes a teal route with one amber decision point. Use navy type on amber; avoid ivory body text on amber.

Two people. Real conversation.

Character identities stay stable; emotion comes from gaze, posture and purposeful gestures.

COACH / Reflective partner

Middle Eastern woman, early 40s. Dark wavy bob, navy blazer, teal top and ivory trousers. Attentive, curious, quietly confident. Her gesture invites exploration.

COACHEE / Decision maker

Middle Eastern man, early 30s. Dark curls, neat beard, amber overshirt and navy trousers. Uncertain, reflective, resolved. He chooses his own next step.

The movement order

01 / GAZE

Eyes find the focus.

02 / HEAD

Head follows gently.

03 / GESTURE

Torso and hand respond.

04 / SETTLE

Movement rests naturally.

What must be built next

Separate anatomy and face groups, documented joint pivots, sitting and standing views, expressions and hand poses. Whiteboard variants retain the same landmarks.

What the sheet provides

A polished visual reference for likeness and performance. It is a flattened PNG, not a layered SVG/PSD rig. Audio-timed lip sync needs real viseme timings.

Character acting test: eye focus -> listening pause -> one open-hand question -> coachee reflection. Review joint continuity and natural movement in a 5-second playback.

One story. Two animation styles.

A proposed six-video campaign moves from recognizing uncertainty to a Chemistry Session.

01	Your next step	Character motion / 30 s
02	What happens in coaching?	Whiteboard / 35 s
03	Choosing your next role	Character motion / 30 s
04	A leadership moment	Character motion / 30 s
05	Coaching or advising?	Whiteboard / 40 s
06	The first conversation	Hybrid / 25 s

Motion graphics

Articulated character performance, restrained kinetic type and a signature choice route. Quiet reflective beats are part of the performance.

Whiteboard

Actual ordered SVG stroke reveals. Silhouette, face, clothing and relevant props draw progressively; accents appear after their outlines.

Give Claude a production system.

Project instructions, visual references and concrete acceptance criteria create a repeatable workflow.

01 / Open the project

Extract the ZIP and open its folder in Claude Code. Keep CLAUDE.md at the root; keep the assets and specifications together.

02 / Build the character assets

Paste prompts/01-build-character-assets.txt. Establish named layers, pivots and a short acting test before the full film.

03 / Produce the first reel

Use prompt 02 for motion or 03 for whiteboard. The campaign plan includes English and Egyptian Arabic voiceover drafts.

04 / Verify the actual output

Inspect storyboard frames and real-time playback. Check identity, movement, text, duration and audio. Save concrete corrections.

This is project context and production guidance, not model fine-tuning. Full character rigs, final voiceover and finished campaign videos are subsequent production deliverables.
